JER. AVIV. — The District Court here yesterday issued a temporary injunction ordering all Kapat Holim doctors back to work. The doctors are expected to comply with the order, but a spokesman said yesterday that their legal adviser was already drawing up a brief to have the injunction withdrawn. The brief may be submitted to the court this morning.

The injunction was issued yesterday by Judge S.H. Lowenberg in response to an application by Mordechai Zahavi, a lawyer, who appeared "as a rank and file member of Kapat Holim."

Mr. Zahavi noted that as a dues-paying member of Kapat Holim, he was entitled to the services of a Kapat Holim doctor, and the strike deprived him of his rights. Moreover, he claimed that the strike was illegal, since the doctors had not announced a "work dispute" 15 days before going out on strike. In addition, the legal appointment of a director-general who was not a physician was insufficient reason to take such drastic action as striking.

Judge Lowenberg, in complying with the request, noted that Mr. Zahavi represented "the silent majority." "There is no doubt that the strike is causing much suffering to thousands of members of the sick fund, and all these thousands have the right to proper services," he said.

'MY DOCTORS'

Rising to their defence was Dr. Hanna Sneh (Maki), widow of the late Moshe Sneh, who warned the committee against creating bitterness it would take years to wipe out. "There is no doubt that six years ago Mr. Yadin had once uttered a phrase that still rankled in the breasts of many doctors. He had called them "my doctors." Mr. Yadin smiled as she recounted the incident.

Health Minister Victor Shemtov and Dr. Baruch Padeh, director-general of the Ministry, yesterday discussed the strike with Mr. Yadin and Dr. Haim Doron, his deputy.

Labour Party Secretary-General Aharon Yadin told a rally of trade union leaders yesterday that the Kapat Holim doctors' strike was both unprecedented and unjustified. The Tel Aviv Labour Party branch secretary yesterday adopted a motion urging party members who are Kapat Holim physicians in the Tel Aviv region to return to work immediately.

Trudeau to make decision

OTTAWA (AP). — Pierre Elliott Trudeau plans to announce at 3 a.m. today (Israel time) whether he will stay on as Prime Minister. He spoke with reporters as he entered a Cabinet meeting, the second in two days to discuss election results. If Mr. Trudeau bows out, the Conservatives headed by Robert Stanfield will undertake to form a government.

BEN-HORIN DUE BACK

LOD AIRPORT. — The Israeli ambassador to Bonn, Eliahu Ben-Horin, was expected to arrive here late last night for consultations with the Government.

He was recalled to report on the talks he held with Bonn officials of their decision to free the three Munich Arab terrorists after the Lufthansa hijack last weekend.

Libya to keep training terrorists

BEIRUT (AP). — The Libyan military regime will continue to harbour and train Palestinian terrorists despite threats from Israel, Libyan Foreign Minister Manouev Kikiya was quoted as saying yesterday.

"Undaunted Libya will never bow to Israeli threats. We will never cease the help we have been giving to the Palestinian commandos. Israel does not scare us with its threats. We are committed to help the Palestinian Liberation Movement with men and money," he said in an interview carried by the Middle East News Agency.

Kikiya asserted that hundreds of young men from different Arab countries are receiving training in Libyan camps and many of them were already fighting under Palestinian leadership. "Some of those volunteers were killed in the recent Israeli raids against commando bases in Syria," he said.

'Cease-fire not so close' Hanoi demands signing first, talks later

PARIS. — North Vietnam declared yesterday the U.S. must undertake to sign a Vietnam peace agreement before Hanoi will consent to further discussions with Henry Kissinger. The statement was made by Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation, after the day's peace talks.

At the session, the U.S. told the Vietnamese Communists that the few remaining problems to be settled before a cease-fire second is reached should not be dismissed as a pretext for delay.

"The U.S. said that "peace is near." But it insisted one more negotiating session is needed to wrap up remaining issues before a cease-fire agreement can be signed.

The Communists for their part insisted that no more talks are necessary and again accused the Nixon Administration of "bad faith" for failing to sign on the October 31 deadline they had set.

Diplomatic observers said their statements appeared to indicate a cease-fire settlement may not be as close as had been assumed a week ago.

In Washington, Dr. Kissinger conferred with President Nixon for about 40 minutes yesterday, the White House said, then refused to say whether the President's top foreign affairs negotiator was still fulfilling his promises during the next legislative period. Mr. Chou was quoted as saying in the interview telephoned from Peking.

But a North Vietnamese spokesman dismissed as sheer rumour a report that Dr. Kissinger met Hanoi negotiator Xuan Tuay in Paris yesterday.

The South Vietnamese said the main road block as far as Saigon is concerned is the presence of 14 North Vietnamese army divisions in the south. They said Saigon will not agree to a cease-fire until they are withdrawn.

The sharply conflicting positions emerged starkly from the 165th and latest session of the marathon Vietnam peace talks — the first held since Hanoi a week ago published the terms of a draft cease-fire settlement worked out in secret talks with Dr. Kissinger.

In Vienna, Chinese Premier Chou En-lai was quoted as saying in an Austrian radio interview yesterday that President Nixon was "playing a false game" and that he saw no immediate end to the Vietnam war.

"Mr. Nixon and Kissinger are playing a false game in Indochina but maybe he (the President) will fulfill his promises during the next legislative period," Mr. Chou was quoted as saying in the interview telephoned from Peking.

But a North Vietnamese spokesman said that Dr. Kissinger was "playing a false game" and that he saw no immediate end to the Vietnam war.

Malaysia letter bomb defused in London

LONDON. — A letter bomb bearing a Malaysian postmark was received by a Jewish charity organisation here yesterday. Police were called to the London headquarters of the organisation and the device was defused by experts.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said the bomb was similar to the device that killed the Israeli Embassy's agricultural attaché, Dr. Ami Shachori, six weeks ago. It was wired into a 15 cm. by 7.5 cm. bright orange envelope.

Scotland Yard, who declined to give the name of the organisation for security reasons, said the letter bore a Penang, Malaysia, postmark. The letter arrived by first post yesterday morning, but charity officials were suspicious and alerted the police. The package was later taken to Scotland Yard for detailed examination by forensic experts.

A name and a Singapore address were on the back of the envelope, the Yard spokesman said. In Kuala Lumpur, Malaysian officials said yesterday that a local Malay-Arab group is responsible for the rash of letter-bombs mailed from Kuala Lumpur to Jewish groups abroad. Fifteen of these were intercepted on Tuesday.

A government official said the tight security surrounding the incidents was to enable police to identify members of the group and allow the government to decide on a plan of action. "We know who the responsible group is but we want to find out first who are the individuals involved before we make any move," said the official who declined to be identified.

The Ministry of Home Affairs said in a statement that strict security measures were being maintained at all post offices.

Sources close to the government said Malaysia was concerned and embarrassed now that it had been proved that letter bombs were being mailed from this country to various destinations overseas.

The government's reported embarrassment is believed partly due to the fact that it is the only country in Southeast Asia which has Fatah.

Bomb found at Beirut university

BEIRUT (UPI). — The American University of Beirut yesterday foiled an apparent attempt to blow up part of one of its buildings, police sources said.

The sources said the janitor of West Hall, where most student activities are usually held, discovered 200 grams of dynamite attached to a wire and placed near the stairs at the building entrance.

He called the university security office and one of its officers defused the device.

Terrorist killed in Golan 25,000 Soviet Jews leave in 10 months

Jerusalem Post Military Correspondent. A terrorist who infiltrated the Golan Heights from Syria on Wednesday night was killed by an army patrol. It is assumed, from the type of equipment found near the body, that the man intended planting a mine in the area.

The incident occurred at around 8.45 p.m. when a regular army patrol came across the terrorist. Next to the body soldiers found a Kalashnikov semi-automatic rifle, as well as an envelope with three detonator caps.

This was the first incident in the Golan Heights since Israeli planes bombed four terrorist concentrations and a Syrian military camp on Sunday, and since Syrian artillery opened fire at Israeli positions in the Heights that same afternoon.

Military observers yesterday expressed "surprise" that the Syrians had allowed the terrorists to venture into Israel-held territory so soon after the last clash. Usually the Syrians prevent incursions into Israel until tension in the area drops.

Since no terrorist activity from Syria takes place without the prior sanction of Damascus, the observers think that the Syrian Government is trying to prove that it will not be deterred in its support for the terrorists by Israeli punitive raids.

The observers also note, however, that the Syrians only allow raids which they consider too small to justify Israeli retaliation, but large enough to satisfy those who are demanding that Syria become more active in the war against Israel.

Meanwhile, it is learned that the Golan Heights remained closed to civilian traffic yesterday. It is expected that the area will remain closed today as well.

No sign of tax lifting 25,000 Soviet Jews leave in 10 months

MOSCOW (AP). — There is no sign that the Soviet authorities were going to rescind the diploma tax decreed in secret last August 3, informed sources said here yesterday.

The sources said the tax was being waived in about 60 per cent of the cases where it could be applied. For the other 40 per cent the head tax was being collected with no apparent pattern.

The sources pointed out that more than 25,000 Jews left the Soviet Union for Israel during the first 10 months of this year. They said that if nothing changes to affect the rate of emigration, the 1972 target of 30,000 privately promised by Soviet officials would be easily met.

In several instances where both husband and wife could have been required to pay because of their education, officials imposed the levy on just one of them, the sources said.

Near the end of last month a man and wife, both of them doctors, bought their freedom with a payment of 37,000 rubles ($44,400).

Sources said some 3,700 Jews quit the Soviet Union in October. Many were from Moscow and an unusually high number were granted permission to leave from Leningrad, a city where authorities have kept the outflow at a trickle.

While trying to read Soviet intentions on the head tax, the sources were drawn to the recent experience of a group of Odessa Jews who were first told the diploma tax would be waived for them. Officials later changed their ruling, saying exemptions would be permitted only for those who had worked for at least 25 years or were over 60 years of age.

Without guidance from Soviet officials, the sources were wondering whether the Odessa ruling would be applied throughout the Soviet Union in the future.

Meanwhile, in an effort to influence the authorities, the wives of 21 scientists whose departure has been barred because officials said it would not be in the national interest, staged a silent demonstration for the second day yesterday at the offices of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

Mrs. Markish and son to leave

MOSCOW (Reuter). — The widow and son of Jewish poet Peretz Markish, shot 20 years ago in Stalin's purges, yesterday received permission to emigrate to Israel, informed sources said.

Mrs. Esther Markish and her son David, a writer in his thirties, previously had six applications for exit visas turned down. The sources said they would leave for Israel on Monday.

David's wife Irina, who was allowed to emigrate last year, agitated in the West to draw attention to her family's case.

Three more get cholera

Jerusalem Post Reporter. Three more cases of cholera were diagnosed in Jerusalem yesterday, bringing the total in Israel to five.

The Health Ministry spokesman said a 16-year-old girl from the Old City was stricken and taken to Augusta Victoria Hospital. The second patient is a woman of 30 from the village of Abu Ghosh in the Jerusalem Corridor. The third, a man of 60 from Aszarya village east of Jerusalem, is employed in Shuafat. All three victims were taken to Shaare Zedek Hospital, where their condition was last night described as good.

It was found that the Abu Ghosh woman shopped for vegetables in Jerusalem where she bought produce illegally grown with sewage water. It is suspected that the bacteria were transferred through these vegetables.

Following discovery of the first cholera case, on Monday, health authorities started a concentrated campaign of spraying sewage-irrigated fields to destroy them. These are Arab-owned patches, mostly located in the Kidron and Refaim valleys, east and southwest of Jerusalem. The spraying is done from a specially equipped helicopter. Authorities say the expected rain and cold will also be a factor in destroying the bacteria.

The first two victims, a 15-year-old boy and a man of 55, are recovering, it is reported.

The Jerusalem Municipality has meanwhile stepped up its inspection of restaurants and butcher shops in the wake of the cholera, the municipal spokesman said yesterday.

Jordanian Health Ministry sources said yesterday that travellers to the East Bank from Jerusalem will be required to produce an anti-cholera inoculation certificate.

German guards at foreign airports

COLOGNE (Reuter). — Armed security officials from West Germany's paramilitary Federal border police are to be stationed at foreign airports to help combat hijacking, Lufthansa announced yesterday.

A spokesman said 60 policemen would be seconded to Lufthansa at foreign airports regarded as "sensitive." The governments concerned had earlier agreed to this.

He declined to name the airports affected, but said they were mainly in the Near and Far East. They would wear Lufthansa staff uniforms.

The possibility of stationing armed security officials on board aircraft had been ruled out because of the potential danger to passengers, the spokesman said.

Rains forecast

The first real rain of the season came to the northern part of the country yesterday, weather forecasters predicted, more of the same likely today both there and further south.

A drenching rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, fell for several hours yesterday afternoon in Eastern Galilee. Several streets in Tiberias were temporarily flooded.

In Western Galilee intermittent showers turned towards evening into a steady rain, with flashes of lightning.

ATTACK IN SHAFAT

An explosive charge was thrown yesterday at 6.30 p.m. at an IDF patrol in the Gaza Strip's Shafat refugee camp. There were no injuries. The security forces are investigating.

100 said killed in raids near Damascus

DAMASCUS (AFP). — About 100 persons were killed, and another 100 injured, in Israel's air raids on four camps close to Damascus Monday morning, semi-official sources in the Syrian capital said yesterday.

Most of the casualties were children, women and old people, the sources claimed. There has not yet been an official announcement on the casualties from Monday night's bombing of a Syrian army base in Tel Kalah, near the Lebanese border.

AFTER MIDNIGHT

The BBC reported last night that "Al Akram" editor Hassanat Haykal is to stand trial on charges of libel and publishing false information. The BBC's Cairo correspondent said that several Egyptian jurists had accused Haykal of spreading false reports concerning people in last year's disturbances at Helwan.

Thirty-six miners were killed yesterday when a methane gas explosion ripped through a major pit complex in southwestern Tasmania, according to reports reaching Vienna.

Election eve jostling inside Labour Party

By MARK SEGAL Jerusalem Post Political Reporter TEL AVIV. — With the election year coming up, the temperature is beginning to rise inside the Labour Party. The Ahdut Ha'avoda wing believes recent attacks on Histadrut Secretary-General Yitzhak Ben-Aharon are part of a Mapai effort to reduce Ahdut's influence. The Raif wing is gearing itself for what it considers an all-out assault on Defence Minister Moshe Dayan's policies in the territories and a concerted attempt to smother the direct mayoral elections bill of Mordechai Ben-Porat, M.K.

number of Raif men in "safe seats" in the next list. Another cause for concern in Raif is the attempt to kill Mr. Ben-Porat's bill for direct mayoral elections. Although Alignment faction Executive chairman Moshe Baran has confirmed that the top party leaders are committed to see this legislation through, Avraham Ofer, a leading member of the "Gush," has joined with Mrs. Shoshana Arbeli-Amosino, M.K. of Ahdut Ha'avoda in seeking to kill the bill.

Shlomi, 'father of Israel's corn', dead at 68

Jerusalem Post Reporter TIVON. — Veteran agronomist Avraham Shlomi, 68, was killed in a road accident yesterday while on his way to work at the Neve Ya'ar experimental station, 10 kilometres east of here. Shlomi, who was born in Russia and settled in Israel in the late twenties, was known as the father of Israel's corn. All the strains grown in the country were developed by him during his long years at the Neve Ya'ar station, where he had worked since its founding in 1948. Shlomi also helped a number of African, Asian and Latin American countries increase their corn yields. He leaves a wife, son and daughter. The funeral will leave the Neve Ya'ar experimental station at noon today for the Tivon cemetery.

Tel Aviv, Haifa cinemas plan one-day strike

Jerusalem Post Reporter
Cinema screens in Tel Aviv and Haifa may be blacked out for one day next week, in sympathy with striking Jerusalem movie house workers.

Acting at the request of the Jerusalem workers, the secretaries of the Tel Aviv and Haifa cinema workers' unions agreed on the sympathy walkout yesterday, and will meet on Sunday to decide on which day to strike — if no settlement is reached by then in the Jerusalem dispute.

That dispute enters its 15th day this morning, and involves eight of the Capital's 10 cinemas. The dispute revolves around the workers' demand that the operators contribute the same amount to the workers' severance pay fund as do cinema operators in other parts of the country.

TV sanctions cancel show

Jerusalem Post Reporter
The "Match of the Week" television sports programme was cancelled last night as TV production workers went ahead with their next to work to rule.

The staffers said they would work their required eight hours a day — until 10 p.m. — till they were granted journalist salary grades, which they say were promised them three years ago. (TV programming normally runs until 11 p.m.)

Negotiations continued until 1 a.m. Wednesday night over the workers' demands, but they came to a standstill and no further meetings took place yesterday.

T.A. police offer flats to attract men

Jerusalem Post Reporter
Two hundred apartments will be placed at the disposal of the Police Ministry in the Tel Aviv area next year to attract more recruits to the undermanned Tel Aviv force.

Tal-Nitzav Meir Novik, head of the Police Personnel Division, told a press conference Wednesday that the apartments, provided by the Finance Ministry, will be rented cheaply to married policemen willing to transfer to Tel Aviv from other districts.

If the operation succeeds, he said, more apartments will probably be added in the future.

The Police already provided bachelor policemen with lodging and three meals a day for IL46 a month.

Tal-Nitzav Meir Novik also announced that policemen on night duty will receive an additional IL10 for each tour. Next April 1 the figure will be raised to IL13 and a year later to IL15. Policemen on patrol duty usually serve about eight nights a month. Additional pay for Saturday and holidays which until now was 25 per cent of a regular day's pay now is 70 per cent. The average daily salary for a policeman is IL40.

T.A. Police raid 'brothel'

TEL AVIV. — Police yesterday uncovered what they said was a brothel here — filled with men waiting their turn for the third alleged Tel Aviv brothel raided in the course of the week.

Two suspects were arrested, a 39-year-old alleged prostitute and a man aged 52 whom police said was running the house.

Central District police had been keeping watch on the house, on Rehov Hehalutzim, for some time. The raid, part of a campaign to reduce prostitution in the Tel Aviv area, came on a day when the ordinary roundup of streetwalkers produced 30 suspects.

Sports Fed. scores Munich capitulation

Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — The Council of the Israel Sports Federation, at a special meeting here yesterday, expressed its shock and protest at the release of three Arab terrorists held in Germany for the murder of the 11 Olympic sportsmen in Munich on September 5.

Bavli residents declare tax strike over 'neglect'

By SARAH HONIG
Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — The neighbourhood committee of the Shikun Bavli quarter here has declared a tax strike against the Tel Aviv Municipality. They are protesting what they call gross neglect: among other things, the 16,000 residents do not have a single tree to look at.

Committee head Arye Friedman, who listed complaints, running from inadequate schools to building on land meant for parks, said the committee would try to persuade residents to pay their tax money into a special bank account instead. He declared yesterday that, despite the IL2m. Shikun Bavli residents pay every year in rates on their expensive new homes, all they have for it so far is "one tiny playground."

Shikun Bavli has not one single tree, pharmacy, clinic or post office branch, the angry residents' committee said yesterday. They added that the Municipality was permitting contractors to build on much of the 40,000 dunams set aside for parks.

Schools and kindergartens in the area were described as inadequate, with many of the quarter's large proportion of young children being forced to travel outside the North Tel Aviv quarter to go to school. The Municipality was accused of failing to keep its promises to build more classrooms.

T.A. police offer flats to attract men

Jerusalem Post Reporter
Two hundred apartments will be placed at the disposal of the Police Ministry in the Tel Aviv area next year to attract more recruits to the undermanned Tel Aviv force.

Tal-Nitzav Meir Novik, head of the Police Personnel Division, told a press conference Wednesday that the apartments, provided by the Finance Ministry, will be rented cheaply to married policemen willing to transfer to Tel Aviv from other districts.

If the operation succeeds, he said, more apartments will probably be added in the future.

The Police already provided bachelor policemen with lodging and three meals a day for IL46 a month.

Tal-Nitzav Meir Novik also announced that policemen on night duty will receive an additional IL10 for each tour. Next April 1 the figure will be raised to IL13 and a year later to IL15. Policemen on patrol duty usually serve about eight nights a month. Additional pay for Saturday and holidays which until now was 25 per cent of a regular day's pay now is 70 per cent. The average daily salary for a policeman is IL40.

T.A. Police raid 'brothel'

TEL AVIV. — Police yesterday uncovered what they said was a brothel here — filled with men waiting their turn for the third alleged Tel Aviv brothel raided in the course of the week.

Two suspects were arrested, a 39-year-old alleged prostitute and a man aged 52 whom police said was running the house.

Central District police had been keeping watch on the house, on Rehov Hehalutzim, for some time. The raid, part of a campaign to reduce prostitution in the Tel Aviv area, came on a day when the ordinary roundup of streetwalkers produced 30 suspects.

Sports Fed. scores Munich capitulation

Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — The Council of the Israel Sports Federation, at a special meeting here yesterday, expressed its shock and protest at the release of three Arab terrorists held in Germany for the murder of the 11 Olympic sportsmen in Munich on September 5.

International aviation parley in Tel Aviv

Jerusalem Post Aviation Correspondent
A number of international civil aviation authorities are due in Israel later this month to participate in a two-day symposium on "The Influence of Airfields on their Environment."

The symposium will open on November 15 at Tel Aviv University. The symposium was organized by Rama — the forum for the review of current problems in civil aviation.

Stamp out air terrorism, Skak clubs urge

TEL AVIV. — Skak clubs throughout the world will appeal to their governments to employ maximum security measures so that piracy and sabotage in the air may be stamped out. This was the gist of a resolution passed here yesterday at the concluding session of the 33rd Congress of the International Association of Skak Clubs.

Over 700 delegates, representing 33 clubs in 42 countries, took part in the congress. Their members are prominent figures in the travel and tourist agencies, airlines, shipping, bus, train, car rental companies, as well as outstanding hoteliers and restaurant owners.

Mr. Rocco Curcio of Italy was yesterday elected president of the Association for the coming term.

Bus lines in Capital to change on Sunday

Jerusalem Post Reporter
Changes in seven Egged bus lines in Jerusalem will go into effect Sunday. They are designed to speed up service by establishing longer routes and eliminate the need for changing buses. This will also make it possible to do away with terminuses in the centre of town, which tend to impede traffic.

The Transport Ministry spokesman said yesterday that the changes reflect suggestions received from the Jerusalem public in a survey a year ago.

Bus line No. 1 will be extended to start at the Central Bus Station, rather than in Geula, and run via Mea Shearim and Jaffa Gate to the Western Wall.

The No. 4 line will start at Rehov Pait (the Delek station at the turn-off from Rehov Herzog (Gaza Road)) and will continue via the Katamon, Smeck Refaim and King George to Givat Shapir (French Hill). Line 13a will be abolished.

Line No. 5 will be extended to run from Rehavia to Jaffa Gate, making access to the Old City easier.

The No. 11 line will be extended from Givat Shaul to Givat Shaul Bet, via the industrial zone. Bus No. 14 will be eliminated.

Line No. 15 will be extended from the Rehov Hapalmah area in Katamon to near Beit Elsheva, enabling residents from this section to go as far as Rehov Mamila.

Line 18 will be merged with line 13 (which will be abolished), and its new route will be from Rehov Pait to Kiryat Hayovel, where it will be extended to run until Rehov Stern.

Line No. 24 will start at Rehov Pait (corner Herzog) and go via Rehov Golomb to Kiryat Hayovel and the student residences. From there it will continue its old route to the Hebrew University. The route will thus connect Katamon Het and Tet with Beit Hakarem.

Soviet prof. appointed to Technion posts

Jerusalem Post Reporter
HAIFA. — The Technion Senate has decided to offer a professorship in two departments, chemistry and chemical engineering, to the noted Soviet Jewish scientist, Benjamin Levich, who is striving to emigrate to Israel. The Technion spokesman told The Post that President Alexander Goldberg had written to Prof. Levich informing him of the appointment and inviting him to join the Technion.

Prof. Levich specializes in electro-chemistry and is considered a leading expert in the field. He is a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and deputy president of the International Electro-Chemistry Society.

Man, 78, dies from fall in pit

A 78-year-old man was fatally injured early Wednesday morning when he fell into a pit near a construction site in the Katamon quarter of Jerusalem.

The man, Nuriel Nuriel, was rushed to hospital but died shortly after admission. The accident occurred in Rehov Yehuda Hehasid.

Police detained the foreman of the construction site for possible negligence. (11m)

There'll never be another Babi Yar, Meir vows

By YITZHAK OKED
Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. — The State of Israel was founded so that there will never be a second Babi Yar, here or anywhere else where Jews live, Prime Minister Golda Meir declared at the unveiling yesterday of a memorial for the 100,000 Jews massacred at Babi Yar in World War II.

Several hundred persons attended the ceremony, held at the Nablut Yitzhak cemetery here. They included Knesset Speaker Yisrael Yeshayahu, Knesset members, and many new immigrants from the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Meir noted that the Russian monument at Babi Yar, in Kiev, does not mention the Jews (the inscription says "Here lie Soviet citizens who fell victim to the Fascists"). She said the Russian leaders should know "that this nation exists, and has been reborn. It is building houses, winning battles, absorbing diaspora. Among the diaspora... is the large diaspora of millions who are now battling for their right to be here. And I am sure they will also come."

Arab youths held for rape of tourists

KPFAR SABA. — Three Kalkilya youths were arrested early yesterday on charges of raping two girl tourists on Wednesday afternoon. Police say the three, aged 18-20, admitted the crime.

The two girls, who arrived in Israel a week ago, had been staying at a kibbutz near Kalkilya and decided on Wednesday afternoon to take a stroll to the Arab town. They told police that on their way back they were overtaken by three Arab youths, armed with a screwdriver, who beat and then raped them, finally abandoning them in an orange grove. (11m)

PAYIS WINNERS

The IL150,000 grand prizes in the Mifal Hapayis lottery were drawn yesterday by tickets No. 032651 and No. 459960. Number 329188 won IL50,000, and numbers 287955 and 721946 won IL12,500. Tickets 328591, 346271, 369850, and 652929 won IL6,250. Tickets ending in "3" won IL4.

The following won IL1,250: 272052, 385322, 623712, 787424, 782143, 228914, 345855, 604838, 728860, 225141, 331923, 537820, 724845, 117316, 323418, 461004, 723835, 275147, 419224, and 715289.

Israeli won't testify at Nazi trial in Germany

Jerusalem Post Reporter
HAIFA. — An Israeli who was to be a witness at the West German trial of 11 alleged Nazi war criminals has decided not to testify — because of Germany's release of the three Munich murderers.

Mr. Yuvia Friedmann, head of the Documentation Centre on Nazi War Crimes here, yesterday informed the court, now sitting in Hamburg, of his refusal to testify, adding that he has no conscience in German justice in trying murderers of Jews.

In September the court began the trial of 11 S.S. men headed by Hauptsturmbannfuhrer Hermann Wehrich, for organizing the roundup and deportation of 250,000 Jews in Radom, Poland, to their death in Treblinka in 1942 and 1943. Some 150 persons have been called to testify, and Mr. Friedmann — himself a death camp survivor — was to be the last witness, to be heard on December 11.

Israeli refuses to leave plane in Munich

Jerusalem Post Reporter
LOD AIRPORT. — The luggage of Yosef Klarman, head of Youth Aliya — who was returning from Brussels yesterday on board an El Al flight — had to be brought to him on the plane for identification at Munich airport.

Mr. Klarman refused to alight in Munich, saying he would not "set foot on German soil."

Mr. Klarman, who is a member of El Al's Board of Directors, said he had been assured by the airline's personnel in Brussels that he would not have to get off the plane when it stopped over in Germany. However, all passengers were asked to alight and identify their luggage in Munich. Mr. Klarman refused to budge and airport police ordered his suitcases brought to him.

Sack IL250-a-day adviser, Gov't told

Jerusalem Post Reporter
The Knesset Finance Committee yesterday called for an immediate halt to the employment at the Absorption Ministry of a "special adviser" at IL250 per day. In a memo to Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir and the Civil Service Commissioner, the Committee expressed its dismay, and noted that the man, Dr. Efraim Ahirman, had previously resigned from a salaried position at the same ministry.

Reform Jews holding weekend convention

Jerusalem Post Reporter
The Movement for Progressive Judaism (Reform) will hold its third national convention this weekend at the Judean Hills Recreation Centre near Jerusalem. Highlighting the two-day convention will be a lecture by Supreme Court Justice Haim Cohn entitled "Who is a Rabbi?"

The convention will begin Friday evening. Justice Cohn's lecture is scheduled for 10.30 a.m. Saturday. Israel has 11 Reform communities.

Neumann agrees to army service

Jerusalem Post Military Correspondent
Giora Neumann, the 19-year-old who refused to enter military service, gave up yesterday: he swore an oath of allegiance to the Defence Forces, and has been drafted into the Medical Corps for the duration of his service.

On Wednesday Neumann was released from prison, after completing two-thirds of an eight-month sentence, handed down after he refused to complete his induction into the army and swear allegiance to the I.D.F. Before being sentenced by a military tribunal in July he spent months in and out of military lock-ups while officers attempted to persuade him to change his mind about serving in what he called "an army of occupation."

In the past Neumann refused promises from army officers that he would be allowed to serve in units where he would not be required to kill, and in units stationed within the Green Line.

Neumann will now be required to undergo basic training, and will then be employed at a hospital in a job which was described as "commensurate with his abilities."

At the same time he was inducted yesterday Neumann signed a statement — which the army has made clear it does not consider binding — that he is not prepared to take part in any actions of "war or conquest."

Neumann's sentence was cut by a third for good behaviour.

140 prisoners to West Germany after amnesty

BRUNSWICK — More than 140 former East German prisoners have arrived by train in West Germany after being released from jails under an amnesty which came into force Wednesday, the Federal Border Police announced here yesterday.

Twenty-two of them were arrested on arrival because they were wanted by West German Police for various crimes, a spokesman said. Most of the prisoners had been serving sentences imposed for their part in attempts to flee East Germany.

The amnesty, announced by the East German Government last month, affects between 10,000 (according to East German sources) and 60,000 prisoners (the highest Western estimate).

Political observers regard the timing of the amnesty as significant in that it virtually coincides with a crucial round of talks between East and West Germany on the establishment of a basic treaty normalizing relations.

In Berlin, the East and West German negotiations ran into new difficulties yesterday, the West German negotiator said. "We truly are in real trouble," State Secretary Egon Bahr told newsmen on leaving the East German cabinet office building in East Berlin.

Mr. Bahr opened a two-day round of talks yesterday with East German State Secretary Michael Kohl. They began their talks in June.

Japanese soldier turns out to be poor Indonesian

JAKARTA (AP). — Fumiana, the man who claimed to be a former soldier of the Japanese Imperial Army during World War II, appeared to be a Chinese-Indonesian who wanted a free trip to Tokyo, an eyewitness who met Fumiana in Bali said here yesterday.

The witness, who declined to be identified, said "the man (Fumiana) does not have a single shred of evidence to prove that he has been a former Japanese soldier."

People who know Fumiana, formerly identified as Fumiana, said Fumiana is an Indonesian who has been living with a poor peasant family in a tiny village.

Fumiana, 47, has a Balinese woman and one son. Fumiana claimed that his son was deaf and mute, but no one has ever seen his son or wife.

Early this week, Fumiana created a sensation when he told the National News Agency Antara he was a soldier of the Japanese Imperial Army and had been living in Bali for 27 years with a poor Balinese family.

Jewish scientists' wives sit in at Supreme Soviet

MOSCOW — The wives of 21 Jewish scientists and intellectuals who have been refused permission to emigrate to Israel staged a silent demonstration yesterday in the office of the Supreme Soviet.

It was the second straight day the women sat in at the reception room of the Supreme Soviet Presidium.

Among the protesters were the wives of computer specialist Alexander Lerner, chemist Benjamin Levich and computer engineer Vladimir Slepak.

Their husbands and those of the other women have been refused exit visas because of their skills.

Levich is a corresponding member of the prestigious Soviet Academy of Sciences.

In a letter to the members of the presidium, the women complained they were "being held by force in the Soviet Union."

"For numerous months and years we have frequently stated our decision to leave for our national motherland," the letter said, "but our appeals and statements have been left without a reply."

RIGHTS IGNORED

"Our natural human rights are being systematically ignored. We, women, mothers, wives desistively demand that you let us and our families go to Israel."

"Today we have come again to the presidium of the Supreme Soviet to state once again we want to live in Israel."

Jewish sources in the Soviet Union have reported progress for many families in their fight to leave Russia without paying the academic tax. A number of families who applied for exemption from the tax were told they would get an answer on November 10. When they complained that would give them only five days before their visas

Death sentences asked in plot to kill King Hassan

RABAT, Morocco (UPI). — Public Prosecutor Col. Ramdane Benayada has asked the death sentence for 14 men standing trial on charges they led the assassination attempt against King Hassan II August 16, court officials said yesterday.

Benayada also asked the military court to hand out three life-long jail terms, four 20-year jail terms and four five-year prison terms for other defendants. Benayada said he let the judges set the verdict for the rest of the 220 defendants on trial.

The group went on trial at near-by Kenitra for their part in the plot during which a group of Royal Moroccan Air Force jet fighters strafed the King's special plane over Morocco as he was returning from a visit in France.

U.S., France ask for drug leaders

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI). — The U.S. and France asked yesterday for the extradition of three members of a Latin American narcotics ring Brazilian police said they smashed Wednesday night.

Government officials said the U.S. was seeking the extradition of Christian Jacques David, 42, named by Brazilian police as suspected top aide of Paraguayan narcotics ring-leader Augustus Joseph Ricord. Ricord is now facing trial in New York.

The U.S. officials said, also is seeking extradition of another Frenchman, Michel Nicole, currently facing the death penalty in France for various crimes.

Military men in new Chile cabinet

SANTIAGO (UPI). — President Salvador Allende has formed a new Cabinet, the Government said yesterday, but the names were not immediately announced.

Political observers said they believe military men will be among the new ministers whose first task is settling the 23-day-old strikes by some 200,000 truckers, shopkeepers and professional men protesting Allende's policies.

Allende's 15-man Cabinet resigned to give him a free hand earlier this week after opposition parties threatened to impeach four ministers, including two who resigned immediately in accordance with previous plans to enable them to run for the Senate in the March elections.

Allende's own Socialist Party defeated the political situation in meetings late Wednesday night but made no statements. Party sources said there was opposition to including the military in the Cabinet and to making concessions to the strikers.

Some 150,000 shopkeepers, 50,000 owner-truck drivers, doctors, lawyers, engineers, pilots, and farmers continued to strike. Negotiations with the Government were broken off when the sides could reach no agreement, but talks could be reopened at any time.

High school students yesterday ended a three-week strike and returned to classes after the resignation of Minister of Education Anibal Palma.

Dutch to revise gun laws after airport incident

AMSTERDAM (INA). — Dutch Premier Joop Ufershuvel yesterday called for a revision of Dutch firearms regulations, following the arrest last week of an Algerian diplomat carrying letter-bombs, explosives, and other ammunition.

In a speech to the Dutch Senate, Mr. Ufershuvel proposed that firearms licenses be banned in airports and aboard aircraft and that violations be more heavily punished.

Mr. Ufershuvel's proposals came after several Dutch Senators called for new regulations.

The Algerian diplomat arrested October 23 at Amsterdam Airport was later released when police said they could not disprove his statement that he "did not know what he was carrying."

Megaton class Soviet N-blast recorded

UPPSALA (UPI). — The Soviet Union yesterday tested a "megaton class" nuclear device underground, the Uppsala Seismological Institute reported.

Prof. Markus Baath, head of the institute, said the size of the nuclear charge could be between one and five megatons, or possibly even bigger. The underground explosion in the Sempalatinsk testing area in Siberia was set off at 01:27 GMT. yesterday morning. It measured 7.1 on the Richter scale.

I.R.A. leaders arrested after tip-off to police

BELFAST (UPI). — Leaders within the Provisional Wing of the Irish Republican Army may have become police informers to get rid of their rivals in an internal power struggle, political sources said yesterday.

The theory emerged following the arrest of six top Provisionals and four other men in an Army raid Wednesday night in Belfast's Ardoyne District. An Army spokesman said the soldiers were tipped off that the men were in the Butler Street Club before sealing off the area.

U.S., France ask for drug leaders

David was arrested last week in Salvador, Brazil. He is accused of planning the 1965 kidnap of Moroccan leftwing leader Ahmed Ben Barka in Paris. Police said he recently infiltrated guerrilla movements in Argentina and Uruguay.

Nicole was among seven persons described by police as heroin smuggling members of the so-called Corsican Mafia — rounded up this week.

France, officials said, asked extradition of David and Francois Antoine Canazal, described as a narcotics smuggler sought in France on a charge of attempted murder. Among others arrested, police

Most Vietnam attacks since 1969 offensive

SAIGON (UPI). — South Vietnamese troops cleared key roads and villages around Saigon yesterday, but Communist forces stepped up their attacks country-wide to the highest point in more than three years.

The Saigon high command said four hamlets in the Saigon region were secured yesterday after fighting with occupying Vietcong and North Vietnamese troops, and reported all highways around the capital open to civilian traffic.

Communist forces staged two attacks on civilians within 25 kms. of Saigon early yesterday. High command spokesmen said they were the last up to dusk.

The spokesmen had no information on attacks on a refugee camp 25 kms. northwest of Saigon and a truck carrying civilians 15 kms. northwest of the capital. Sketchy field reports had few details.

Between dawn Wednesday and daybreak yesterday, there were 142 attacks throughout South Vietnam, spokesmen said, of which 103 were shelling.

The U.S. command said it was the greatest number of attacks since the night of August 11-12, 1969, when there were 223 such assaults. All of those reported yesterday, however, were against government bases and towns only, and it was the greatest number of attacks in that category since the Tet offensive of early 1968.

The government forces made no claim that the Saigon area would be safe in the future. Up to 40,000 Communist forces are believed to be in III Corps and thousands of others within a day's march of the capital region.

Pierce fighting erupted on embattled Highway 4 in Cambodia yesterday with government forces attempting vainly to open an overland supply route to Phnom Penh. Reinforcements attempting to reach the occupied town of Trapeang Kraleng were beaten back by heavy Communist fire. The town, 55 kms. southwest of Phnom Penh, was overrun on Wednesday by Khmer Rouge forces.

Highway 4, which connects Phnom Penh with Cambodia's only deep water seaport, Kompong Som, considered of vital importance the viability of the Cambodian government.

With Highway 1, connecting Phnom Penh with Saigon, and Highway 5, reaching out to the rich growing northwestern province severed by the Communists, Highway 4 and the Mekong River handled all supply traffic into Cambodian capital for seven months.

Another top official quits in Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (Reuters). — Mr. Ko Popovic, who has held several posts since World War II, has resigned as a member of the Yugoslav State Presidency, usually well informed sources said here yesterday.

Observers think his resignation with those of several other State Party officials and of some party and government officials in other Yugoslav Republics in the wake of President Tito's current campaign to strengthen Communist discipline.

The resignation of the Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Mr. Mirko Tepavac, was announced Wednesday.

Mr. Popovic, 64, has been a member of the Yugoslav Communist Party since 1933, and at various times has held the posts of Chief of Staff, Foreign Minister and Vice President since 1945.

The sources could not say if he will continue to hold his two other current posts — member of the Defense Council and of the Council of the Federation — or whether his resignation would affect his membership of the permanent part of the Yugoslav Communist Party Conference.

Among those nabbed were Leo Morgan, 24, suspected commander of the Provisional's Ardoyne Battalion, a training officer and four officers. It was the third successful round-up of Provisional leaders in less than two weeks, raising the total captured to 11 men in command positions.

The sources noted the successes followed the release of several interned I.R.A. commanders, whose positions had been taken over by younger men during their detention. They said they believe it has been rivalry between these two groups that led to the tip-offs.

Military sources declined to comment on the report, but noted that the raids have seriously damaged the Provisional's command structure.

"The Provisional leadership has never been in such a state of disarray and we are benefiting from this," one said.

Oil, gas found in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA (Reuters). — Emperor Haile Selassie said here yesterday tests have shown there was oil and natural gas in southern Ethiopia. The Emperor was addressing the opening session of Parliament in a speech from the throne after the summer recess.

The Emperor said an oil exploration company had carried out tests for oil and natural gas in the Province of Bale, near the Woylo River, southern Ethiopia. "The company is making further studies to establish the amount and extent of the oil," he said.

The Ethiopian Oil Corporation also was searching for oil on shore and at sea on the borders of Ethiopia's northernmost province of Eritrea, north of the Red Sea port of Massawa.

In a major policy speech on the occasion of the 42nd anniversary of his coronation, the Emperor said: "Ethiopia's abundant and boundless resources require a combination of financial power and technical know-how for their exploration."

"We therefore take this opportunity to invite again local as well as foreign investors to participate in the exploration of Ethiopia's natural resources both in Ethiopia's interest and their own, for Ethiopia's investment laws fully safeguard such investors."

Marcos lifts ban on Philippine news media

MANILA (AP). — President Ferdinand E. Marcos yesterday allowed Philippine news media to carry editorials, columns and analysis and lifted free publication clearances for foreign press stories in an effort to normalize Government relations with the media.

Marcos closed down all the print and broadcast news media when he imposed martial law in the country last September 22.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad told newsmen, however, that columnists, editorial writers and broadcast commentators must be cleared by the Government.

At the same time Marcos decreed the cancellation of franchises, permits and authorizations granted for radio, television and telecommunication facilities unused by their holders.

In Presidential Decree Number 28, Marcos also created the Mass Media Council which must now pass approval on all media.

Korea negotiators set unexpected third round

SEOUL (AP). — South and North Korea held the second round of their political talks yesterday in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang to pursue a peaceful territorial reunification of the divided peninsula.

Their joint coordinating committee met for 70 minutes at Pyongyang's Mansudae Assembly Hall, and agreed to hold another session today, a South Korean press pool dispatch from the Communist capital said. Originally, it was expected that the committee would have only one session.

An announcement following the meeting said that both sides had "frank discussions on issues of mutual concern," the report said.

The committee was created under an agreement issued last July 4 to tackle pending problems between the two governments, including the territorial unification.

The first meeting was held at the truce village of Panmunjom on October 12.

A South Korean delegation, headed by Lee Hu-rak, arrived in Pyongyang by helicopter earlier yesterday for the meeting.

An earlier pool story from Pyongyang said that yesterday's meeting was primarily to discuss the composition and management of the joint committee.

Both sides originally agreed to have three to five members each on the committee, but their names have not been announced. No working rules have yet been agreed upon for running the committee.

This was Lee's second visit to the North Korean capital. He made a secret trip to Pyongyang in May to meet with North Korean Premier Kim and other leaders, bringing about the July 4 South-North agreement.

On his current trip, Lee is accompanied by four advisers who include former deputy premier Chang Key-young and former foreign minister Choi Kyu-hah.

The session was held behind closed doors, as was the first meeting, but South Korean newsmen were allowed to enter the conference room just before the meeting ended and to witness conferees from both sides exchange jokes in an amicable atmosphere, they reported.

French Consul hurt in blast by Basques

SARAGOZA (UPI). — Basque Separatists yesterday bombed the French Consulate in an apparent act of vengeance for a recent crackdown on Basque extremists living in France.

Police said Consul Roger Tur, 62, was critically injured and two members of his staff less seriously wounded. The bombing caused a fire which gravely damaged the downtown building housing the Consulate.

Police sources said three persons — one of them possibly a woman — took part in the attack. It appeared to have been meticulously planned.

Identifying themselves as members of "Basque Homeland and Liberty" (ETA), an underground organization which has carried out numerous acts of violence in the past months, the attackers forced their way in to the Consulate and successively beat and tied up a doorman, a secretary and Consul Tur.

Police said they laid them out on the floor of an office, searched various rooms with red paint and hurried from the scene leaving behind a time bomb which blew up shortly afterwards, setting the building aflame.

Political sources said the bombing appeared to be a reprisal for recent measures taken by the French Government against members of ETA who fled from Spain to France.

Following the blowing up of the Bayonne, France, Police Headquarters by suspected members of ETA, French authorities banned many Basque Separatist leaders from the provinces bordering on Spain and cracked down on Separatist activity.

Controversy over 'Escape to the Sun': Bad or awful?

NEW YORK (INA). — "Escape to the Sun," the first motion picture to deal with the plight of Soviet Jews trying to emigrate to Israel and based on the events leading up to the infamous Leningrad hijack trial in December 1970, had its world premiere Tuesday night at the Criterion Theatre. It is a controversial film. But the controversy, unfortunately, is whether it is a bad or a terrible film.

The "New York Times" film critic wrote that current events and problems have spawned a number of bad films. "And now, to treat the plight of Jewish intellectuals in Russia, which isn't a joke, comes Menahem Golan's 'Escape to the Sun' which is..." The acting, he stated, ranges from "the professionally inept to the almost amateurish." The "Times" critic noted further that the film "continually strives to be fancy without ever achieving competence." But the direction, he asserts, is what "really subverts the movie and keeps sinking it beneath the level, to which it might have aspired, of the merely routine."

Home leaves China following 'useful' talks

TOKYO (AP). — British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home said he and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei touched on all aspects of international affairs which were extremely useful and "have greatly enjoyed my visit to China," the New China News Agency reported yesterday.

He quoted Sir Alec as saying at a news conference yesterday that "on bilateral issues between British and China, I was able to underline the British Government's desire to see closer contacts at all levels."

Sir Alec said he was "grateful for the friendly reception" accorded him and his wife, Lady Douglas-Home and their party during their stay in China, Hainan said.

Sir Alec arrived in Hongkong last night.

The critic for the film review of the Jewish Broadcasting Community Relations Advisory Council, wrote that "by and large the characters fall short of the potential of the story. Their emotion is often a mere pastiche of the real thing, and they become unbelievable and boring."

The critic for the film review of the Jewish Broadcasting Community Relations Advisory Council, wrote that "by and large the characters fall short of the potential of the story. Their emotion is often a mere pastiche of the real thing, and they become unbelievable and boring."

A reception sponsored by the National Conference on Soviet Jewry and the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry followed the premiere. Two recent arrivals in Israel from the Soviet Union, Boris Kogan and Misha Nisberger, were honoured during the evening.

Richard Maass, chairman of the NCSI, said that "it is indicative of heightened public sensitivity about Soviet Jewry that a full-length feature film has been made on this topic. It is especially moving at this time because the work of the young artist, Boris Fenson, one of those convicted at the Leningrad Trial portrayed in the film, is presently being exhibited in New York City's Jewish Museum."

Tourists in India can't use rupees

NEW DELHI (AP). — The Indian rupee no longer is legal tender in Indian hotels for most foreign visitors. In a bid to reduce black marketeering of the weakening rupee, the government required foreigners, with a few exceptions, to pay hotel bills, including food charges, in foreign exchange.

The rule, which became effective yesterday, also applies to Indians who live abroad but come back to their homeland for a visit. At the last moment, the Government dropped a controversial related proposal that would have required Indians who live in India to pay a 33 1/2 per cent surcharge for the right to use rupees in hotels that charge at least eight dollars a day.

Representatives of the hotel industry petitioned the Government that this proposal was unfair and discriminatory against Indians, who would be penalized for using their own currency.

Foreigners permitted to pay hotel bills in rupees include persons employed in India, diplomats and nationals of Eastern European countries whose governments trade with India in rupees instead of hard currency.

The Government estimated it was losing considerable foreign exchange because some tourists would change travellers cheques and cash on the black market, where they would get about one-third more rupees for their money.

Soviet bloc envoys shun China trip

PEKING (Reuters). — The Soviet Ambassador and other East European envoys who walked out of a Peking reception Wednesday night yesterday declined to join a four-day trip organized by the Foreign Ministry for ambassadors accredited here.

Senior diplomats in Peking left without the Russian Ambassador, Vassil Tolstikov, and other Soviet Bloc envoys, for a visit to Szechwan Province, said to be one of the most scenically beautiful areas in China.

Informed sources here said the trip to Szechwan — which is being opened to diplomats for one of the few times since the Communists came to power in 1949 — had been avoided by the East Europeans because they feared they might not be back in time to mark the 56th anniversary of the founding of the Soviet Republic.

Despite assurances from the Chinese that they would be back in Peking for a scheduled reception next Monday, the eve of Soviet National Day, the envoys had expressed doubts, the sources said. They had suggested that the trip was a "manoeuvre" to prevent them attending the reception in the Soviet Embassy.

The Soviet bloc diplomats have indicated that they will walk out of future receptions in Peking when China attacks super-powers — the Chinese Communist Jargon for the Soviet Union and the United States.

Wednesday night's walkout from a reception marking Algeria's National Day came when China's Foreign Minister, Chi Peng-fei, made a passing reference to super-powers in the Mediterranean.

10 die, 41 hurt in Taiwan tanker blast

TAIPEI — Ten workers were killed and 41 injured yesterday when an explosion rocked a Norwegian tanker undergoing repairs at the Taiwan Shipbuilding Company docks at the northern port of Keelung.

Police said the explosion occurred when gas leaked from a welding torch being used to replace worn deck plates on the 20,000-ton Tenzaco Britannia.

The explosion itself, which was heard throughout the city of 300,000, was responsible for killing a few of the men, police said. But its force sent metal fragments flying and shook loose equipment that killed or injured many of the workers aboard.

The company's security officer said the explosion was not caused by gas residues remaining in the tanks. The tanks had been inspected earlier and showed no traces of oil fumes, the officer said.

In Brindisi, Italy, an Italian tanker caught fire and exploded off the coast yesterday. The tanker was identified as the 18,000-ton San Nicola, registered in Trieste. Two of the 34 crewmen were killed, five injured and one missing. (AP, UPI)

Sheriffs hunt more bodies in 'Hell's Angels cemetery'

UKIAH, California. — Sheriffs investigators continued their search here yesterday for more bodies on a tree-screened sheep ranch where police have already dug up the remains of two men and a woman.

A California state attorney says the ranch is rumored to be a "burying ground" for the Hell's Angels motorcycle gang.

Dick Adams, a special assistant to the State Attorney General, said the bodies were found in what were originally well holes. "Since there are other similar holes in the area, he said, "these will now be examined," although we do not have specific information concerning additional bodies.

The owners of the rolling ranch land five kilometres south-west of Ukiah, where the three bodies were discovered Monday night, George "Baby Huey" Wethers and his wife Helen, have been charged with possession and sale of drugs. Wethers also was charged with possessing stolen property. Wethers, 33, and his 29-year-old wife were being held at the Mendocino County jail in lieu of $100,000 bail each. No one connected with the investigation has linked Wethers to membership in the Hell's Angels.

Adams added that "some of the victims were believed to have been murdered by several members of the Hell's Angels. Contra Costa County has issued warrants of arrest for them." E. O. W. v. c., Contra Costa District Attorney William O'Malley has denied warrants have been issued, and Mendocino County Sheriff Reno Bartolomei said it was still uncertain how the three victims died.

Meanwhile, in Fairfield, California, where farm labour contractor Juan Corona is charged with murdering 25 men and burying them in shallow graves in Sutter County, Defence Attorney Richard Hawk huddled with the prosecution and judge after hearing of the Ukiah case. (Reuters, AP)

U.S. red tape makes registration difficult

AMERICANS IN ISRAEL FIND IT HARD TO VOTE

By PINA RABINOWITZ
Special to The Jerusalem Post

AN estimated 15,000-20,000 Americans living in Israel could have been eligible to vote in next week's American presidential election. Presumably, only a fraction have actually applied to register. And many of these have found that lack of knowledge of the registration regulations in their states and the uncooperative attitude of the local election boards in facilitating voting for them have denied them the right to vote.

The American Consulate in Tel Aviv has been processing 40-50 applications for registration a day over recent months; the Jerusalem Consulate reports that about 25 citizens have been applying there daily.

Registration is done through the local election board (each county has its own) in the citizen's home state — the state of his previous legal residence or the state from which he departed. The fact that regulations on such matters as deadlines for registering and for requesting and submitting absentee ballots vary from state to state — and that the implementation of these regulations vary from district to district — has been an obstacle for would-be voters here.

Although the 1970 Voting Rights Amendment Act was intended to facilitate voting for Americans abroad by assisting them to fill out at the embassy and consulate a Federal post card application form for an absentee ballot, Mr. John Adams, the Vice-Consul at the Tel Aviv Embassy, reports that many election boards have as yet failed to comply with the intention of this law. Voters from the New York City area especially have been receiving in reply to their applications for ballots form letters stating that since they are no longer residents of a particular district they are ineligible to vote. (This reporter, a New Yorker who submitted her application for a ballot weeks ago, has as yet received no response of any kind from New York.)

AIR MAIL POSTAGE

Voting for Americans living in Israel is further complicated by the fact that some district boards require voters abroad to supply air mail postage ($1.05) for each ballot sent outside the U.S., while other districts send out ballots gratis. (Mr. Adams reports that still other election boards graciously refrain from requesting air mail postage and send the ballots here by ship, so that they will arrive months after election day.)

One American who mailed in his application for an absentee ballot a month ago has just received — instead of the ballot — a notice that his request would not be processed until he furnished an additional 18 cents postage to cover the charge of airmailing it to him. Now even if he sends the sum expressed — it won't be possible for him to receive the ballot on time to return it to the local election board by election day.

Why didn't the Embassy inform him of the postage requirement beforehand? Adams says, "It is physically impossible for the Embassy to provide a rundown of the requirements of every local board. The McGovern and Nixon committees in Israel have launched non-partisan drives urging Americans in Israel to exercise their voting rights and informing them how to do so, as well as holding rallies on behalf of their candidates."

Perry is 'best pitcher'

GAYLORD Perry, Cleveland right-hander, was named winner Tuesday of the 1972 Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the American Baseball League. The 34-year-old Indian ace had a 24-16 record and an earned run average of 1.92, second to the league's best, the 1.81 by Luis Tiant of Boston.

Perry narrowly edged Wilbur Wood, Chicago White Sox knuckleballer in the vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He received nine first place votes from the 24-man committee, two from each A.L. City, and finished with a total of 84 points compared with 58 for Wood.

Charles O. Finley, owner of the champion Oakland Athletics was fined $2,500 Wednesday for rewarding some of his players during the U.S. Baseball World Series.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, making the announcement, said Finley was acting in violation of the baseball law which forbids bonuses or incentive payments during the World Series.

After the second game of the series in Cincinnati, Finley announced that he was paying $5,000 extra to catcher Gene Tenace and outfielder Jo Rudi. He also said he had promised $5,000 to first baseman Mike Eagan before the beginning of the American League playoffs.

RUGBY UNION
THE New Zealand All Blacks were outplayed, outmaneuvered and outwitted Wednesday as they went down to a 9-3 defeat to the Welshmen of Llanelli.

With fly-half Phil Bennett tormenting the tourists with his tactical kicking, the Welshmen set out to counter the New Zealand strength by stifling their giant back row, Ian Kirkpatrick, Alan Sutherland and Alistair Scon were never able to mount the surging attacks which demoralized Western Counties in their opening game Saturday.

Centre Roy Bergiers gave Llanelli the early lead in the third minute when Bennett's 40-yard penalty kick hit the bar. The ball rebounded to All Black scrum-half Lyn Colling but Bergiers charged down his kick and pounced for a try, which Bennett converted.

Full-back Joe Karam got the New Zealanders' only score with a 35-yard penalty after 25 minutes.

Wing Andy Hill put the game out of reach in the 71st minute with a penalty from 50 yards, and after that the All Blacks could do little.

SOCCER
FIRST Division clubs Tottenham Hotspur and Norwich both reached the last eight of the League Cup with victories over teams from lower divisions on Wednesday.

Tottenham, the 1971 winners of this competition, showed little sign of fatigue despite playing their fifth game in ten days, and defeated Millwall 2-0 with Martin Peters and Steve Perryman scoring the goals in the opening 15 minutes.

Stockport County, conquerors of First Division West Ham United in an earlier round, were unable to repeat the feat against Norwich, who won 5-1 with goals from David Cross (3), David Stringer and Trevor Howard. Ian Lawther was Stockport's scorer.

The draw for the quarter finals will be made tomorrow with the surviving teams being Arsenal, Chelsea, Tottenham Hotspur, Wolverhampton Wanderers, Norwich City, Blackpool, North County, and Leeds United (on Liverpool).

GOLF

LANNY Wadkins, who collected $27,000 by winning the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament last weekend, has established a record for season earnings by a rookie pro.

Wadkins, a collegiate golf star at Wake Forest, has earned $114,766 this season and ranks eighth among the touring pros. His total surpassed the former rookie record of $103,595 earned by Bob Murphy in 1968.

Jack Nicklaus, who tied for fifth in the Sahara and won $5,197, remains the runaway earnings leader with $290,542. Lee Trevino is a distant second at $200,005, followed by George Archer, $141,702, Jerry Heard, $135,433 and Grier Jones, $134,827.

Completing the top 10 are Gary Player, $120,719, Bruce Devlin, $120,553, Wadkins, $103,595, Aaron, $114,736, and Tom Weiskopf, $113,381. Nicklaus has a chance to top $300,000 for the season as he is now competing in the Disney open which ends on Sunday.

Harrow team finds Israel cricket 'much improved'

By JACK LEON
Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter

TEL AVIV. — There has been a marked improvement in the standard of Israel cricket in the two years since Israel's touring team played Harrow in London.

This is the opinion of Harrow's skipper, all-rounder Tony Westmorland, and his vice-captain and star opening bat Ralph Anley, following the completion of the top-grade English Club Cricket Conference side's visit here.

Commenting on the "Test" at Ashdod last weekend — when Westmorland had match figures of 8 for 34 with his medium-pacers — and the other six games of the tour, they told The Jerusalem Post earlier this week: "Israel certainly seems to have more good players than in 1970, putting up the overall standard of performance considerably." (There were five new caps, all recent immigrants, in the national cricket team.)

Westmorland and Anley were joined by leading English paceman Bob Herrman, who took 116 wickets for Hampshire this season, in criticizing an over-emphasis on defence among Israel's batsmen. The bowling, though "quite tight," would be much more penetrating with the addition of a genuine fast bowler.

The visiting cricketers were full of praise for Beerseba's Alpinus Nashon, who scored an undetected 44 in the "Test," following his 53 for Southern Israel against Ashdod.

Israel soccer XI may play in Argentina

Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter
TEL AVIV. — Israel will play international football match against Argentina in Buenos Aires on November 15. If final agreement can be reached with an Argentinian football impresario currently touring Europe.

A surprise invitation was received by the Israel Football Association on Tuesday, and the F.A. secretary approved the national team's tour for the proposed game in Buenos Aires.

Meanwhile, the Argentina team is due in Israel next Tuesday. The impresario, I. Rabinovitch, is expected to arrive with the Argentinians.

Israel is enjoying an "Argentinian season" in its international encounters, having already played a draw (0-0) against Independiente the Argentinian champions, 11 months ago.

Several European teams have refused recent invitations to visit here to play against the national team. The F.A. spokesman suggested the reason for their refusal, though not stated, was on security grounds.

Ezra Pound, anti-Jewish poet, dies

VENICE (Reuter). — Ezra Pound, one of the foremost poets of the 20th century, known for his anti-Semitism, died here on Wednesday night, two days after his 87th birthday.

Pound, who died of an intestinal obstruction after being rushed to Venice's civil hospital at midnight on Tuesday, had been living in exile in Italy since 1938 when he was released from 18 years in a Washington mental institution, after being accused of treason against the U.S. in World War II.

A towering but tortured figure, he had spent the last 12 years of his life in a small, two-story house near Venice's Grand Canal in a poor quarter of the city, attended only by his housekeeper-companion. He is remembered chiefly for his "cantos" — more than 100 long poems spanning 800 pages, covering the thoughts of mankind from Confucius to the present day — and for his bitter criticism of the U.S. democracy and liberal economics.

According to the Encyclopaedia Judaica, Pound, who was born in Idaho, left the U.S. in 1907 and lived in London and Paris before settling in Italy in 1925. In Italy, he became an admirer of Mussolini and adopted an increasingly pro-Fascist, anti-British and anti-Semitic tone. He became interested in economics and advocated the social credit doctrine of the Canadian C. H. Douglas, which blamed human misery on the financial manipulations of a small capitalist class, mainly Jewish in composition and inspiration.

Pound's "Money Pamphlets" published in Italy in the 1930s, spoke repeatedly of the "Jewish Poison," and in 1939 he wrote an article for the Italian press called "The Jew, Disease Incarnate." Many of his poems (he published over 40 volumes) were violently anti-Jewish.

During World War II he broadcast propaganda for the Axis. He was arrested in 1945 by the U.S. Army on indictment of treason, but was judged mentally unfit to stand trial and was committed to mental hospital.

Tired Brigitte snubs, makes up to minister

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (Reuter). — French film star Brigitte Bardot became involved in a row with a cabinet minister here when she said she was too tired to do anything but go to bed.

The glamorous star arrived here as a guest of the government as part of a programme to boost tourism to the Indian Ocean island.

But stepping off her plane she was reported to have ignored the Mauritian Foreign Minister, Mr. Gaston Durand, who is also responsible for tourism, and refused to attend a party held in her honour, saying she was too tired and was going straight to bed.

She also refused the special hotel suite prepared for her and went to a hotel in the remote northern part of the island.

The row was smoothed over by Baron Arnaud de Rosnay, who had organized Miss Bardot's visit. He invited the star and the minister to meet at his castle in Villebague.

Mr. Duval said on television afterwards that he accepted that the "snub" was a mistake due to Miss Bardot's tiredness.

"I met her last night and I am going to have dinner with her tonight. She is an exquisite and marvellous girl... and she is the person to promote Mauritius abroad."

Two T.A. eateries ordered closed

Jerusalem Post Reporter
TEL AVIV. Mayor Yehoshua Rabinowitz has ordered American-style eateries in Rehov Ibn Gvirol to close down as public nuisances. The proprietors of both the Broadway Pizza and Sandwich City said they are open for business.

The city says the eateries litter their back yards, deposit smelly garbage under the windows of tenants who live above the premises, and, in general, still have no licences. The proprietor of Broadway Pizza, Mr. Robert Haif, told The Jerusalem Post that he has applied for a permit and had even paid the necessary fees, but has yet to be given his licence. Permission to open was given "verbally," he claimed.

Broadway Pizza is generally regarded as having the best pizza in town. The city charged that its pizza ovens produce noxious odours "injurious to tenants."

Although such closure orders are generally issued against unsanitary food retailing establishments, the City spokesman made clear that in this case no one accuses either restaurant of being unhygienic. Officials say the orders will be rescinded when facilities are installed to spare the neighbours the odours and litter.

A BIGGER and BETTER KNESSET

by SHALOM COHEN

I WANT to be a Member of Knesset. I've always wanted to, but now more than ever, since they're thinking of increasing the number of M.K.s by 25 per cent, from 120 to 150. The only reason I haven't yet suggested myself to anyone is because I'm afraid of courting unpopularity. So I'm torn within; though for me the need for a bigger Knesset is a matter of principle. It's about time.

The powers-that-be have at last recognized the need to make our House of Representatives even more representative. Thirty more is not much, but it's a step. Especially since it should be obvious that the extra 30 will include representatives of, say, red-tape victims, pedestrians, bus-travellers, a spouse (ours is ready), a hippie or two, and a couple of Sephardim, special like — to mention only a few. Why anyone should be against making the Knesset more representative is a puzzle.

Sacred?

What's sacred about 120? We, the population, were a small group when that figure was decided on. I can't recall how they got to that figure then. It's said that at the time someone came up with "120" like when you wish somebody long life. But it wasn't meant to be taken literally. In any case, if we're going to do this thing let's do it properly. Make it a round figure — 200, for a start. Not just because I want to be an M.K. I'll take my chances. This country is going to grow. When I was a kid, my mother always bought me clothes too big for me. She took the long view. She knew I would grow. Immediately, one can hear smart objections. The housing situation. The Knesset building on the hill will be too small. To be sure, it could be theoretically. But it would be stretching coincidence to the limit to imagine that all Members would be in the Knesset chamber at one and the same time. There would be no need to expand the chamber, though, granted, the members' restaurant, maybe. And if the unexpected happened, there are those rows of seats in the gallery, filled by simply anyone according to no key or design, at random.

What next?

All very well, I hear, that might answer the problem for the near future, but what next? The rate of increase, 25 per cent per 25 years, could change. What then? Now anyone who has seen the Knesset building with its flat roof knows it is designed for building on. What's more, as more stories are added to the Knesset building, who knows? It could reach up to those Wolfson towers across the way, and so redress its humiliation. If that sounds like exaggeration, we could easily have Upper Houses, Lords of Israel. There are the old-timers, with all their experience, and my neighbour who knows it all; and then the Journalists — the publicists, and the Alufim (Rea.) and let's face facts, what's eventually going to be with the Agency?

I'll also grant we'll have to add a few ushers, to carry all those important notes to Members reading the newspapers, and maybe there'll be some more urgent motions. That's really scraping the bottom of the barrel. Totally routed, the critics come up with the latest catchword —

"rotation" — that every citizen should do a stint in the Knesset. This all-or-nothing attitude is plain bilge. It can't work. Even if we reason that not all the Three Million population want to be in the Knesset (and right away you've got to deduct, statistically, the kids, the smaller ones) you're still left with too many. And I'll also eliminate the port workers, as we don't want to be getting a Knesset strike; also the League footballers, to avoid the disgrace of people chanting "Yeshu rosh habayta" — Speaker, go home — not to speak of barging on the rostrum; and excluding bus drivers because they're sure to shut the doors suddenly and prevent Members from entering the chamber to vote. And I'll even exclude such essential national services such as steak bar, kafelaf and Mifal Hapayis operators.

Baby-sitters?

But then up jumps another demagogue — "we can solve the problem by a system of Reserves — milim, like the Army." What are we dealing with here — Knesset baby-sitters? That's what you get when you start on reforms. All right, so they have long recesses in the Knesset. Because there are few regulars always in the House it doesn't mean that most M.K.s haven't got plenty of other things on their plate.

"It's making a mockery" — this is the last resort of the conservatives. "You can't go tampering with the country's supreme institution because of passing whims and party promises." This is not even worthy of comment. Sour grapes and lack of vision. Institutions are man-made and made for men — the more the better. Think big. Jumbo Knesset.

How water was brought to Dok

By MALKA RABINOWITZ
Jerusalem Post Reporter

GOLANI Brigade scouts two months ago traced an ancient water system whose remains had eluded explorers for a century. They found a 2,000-year-old conduit, which supplied water to a desert outpost overlooking Jericho. This was a fortress called Dok, built by the Hasmoneans and later used by Herod to guard the road to Ramallah (Beit El) and to safeguard the approaches from Transjordan.

The discovery was made during a systematic survey of aqueducts built in the Judean desert in antiquity. The survey was carried out by the Kfar Etzion Field School, together with archaeologist Ze'ev Meshel of Tel Aviv University. Their finds were shown to a press tour earlier this week.

Rock falls on the steep, slippery Dok slopes concealed traces of the channel from earlier searches, starting with the (British) Palestine Exploration Fund survey in 1873 down to Israeli experts after the Six Day War.

Briefed on what to look for, the Israeli scout unit picked up the line of a half-km long channel which carried wadi run-off water to a series of nine cisterns cut into the cliff face. From the cisterns, water was carried to the top by hand or on donkey-back, a system similar to that used at Herodium and Masada, two of the larger fortresses in the same network of Judean desert defences.

Only scattered stones and capitals remain on Dok's summit, which is still hard to get to except for the sure-footed climber with a head for heights. Its strategic advantages are enhanced by a panoramic view of Jerusalem to the west, Sarfatia to the north, the Gilead mountain range in Transjordan opposite and the green Jericho plain below. A wall now encircles the hilltop, part of a church started early this century by the Greek Orthodox monastery of Karantal, about 150 metres down the slope, and never completed.

Complex systems

More complex water systems were traced leading from the springs of Wadi Kelt, the main source of the water in the area. It was found that two of the ancient channels lead not to Jericho, as previously thought, but to the stronghold of Kipros, overlooking Jericho and controlling the road to Jerusalem. Built by the Hasmoneans in the second century B.C.E., the hilltop fort was later expanded by Herod, who named the site for his mother.

The use of pumps was not known and Kipros had no access to Jericho's waters 250 metres below. So spring water was led by force of gravity from Wadi Kelt over a winding course of 14 kms. — about twice the aerial distance. Nine bridges sent the water coursing over wadis and five tunnels led it through hills. Only two of the bridges and two of the tunnels were mapped before the present survey, which was carried out with the aid of youngsters from Ihud Hakibbutzim settlements.

Mr. Meshel believes the earlier of the two roughly parallel conduits was built by the Hasmoneans, although most of the bridges — four of which are still wholly or partially intact — are probably the work of Herod, the Hasmoneans having apparently preferred to detour round the wadis rather than build bridges. However, he believes the earlier Jewish

The summit of ancient Dok fortress is today delineated by the wall of an unfinished Greek Orthodox Church, started in the early part of this century.

A Herodian aqueduct just east of Wadi Kelt which solved the problem of channeling water over a dip in the ground. The water ran in an open channel on top of the bridge from the springs of Wadi Kelt to Kipros fortress overlooking Jericho. The system worked by force of gravity.

rulers had mastered the technique of building aqueducts and that their achievements have been "rather unfairly eclipsed" by the more spectacular later engineering projects of Herod.

One branch of the ancient Wadi Kelt system led down to Jericho where patches of higher ground could not be reached by local springs. About 30 years ago, this channel was partially restored by the landowning Hussaini family of Jericho, which apparently obtained the concession to Wadi Kelt's waters from the Turks, and the line is still in use. Among the Hussaini's water clients today is Nahal Kalia, a post Six Day War settlement on the Dead Sea.

Mr. David Amit headed the survey on behalf of the Kfar Etzion Field School, set up four years ago by young religious settlers who returned to the kibbutz site, near Hebron, after the Six Day War. The school is partly financed by the Education Ministry and runs field trips for school and Gadna youngsters, as well as carrying out surveys in conjunction with academic personnel.

Hiking soldiers find Talmudic era cemetery

SAFAD. — The remains of a Jewish cemetery dating back to the Talmudic period (Third-Fourth Centuries C.E.) were accidentally discovered this week by a group of soldiers hiking near Moshav Alma in Upper Galilee.

North of the site of ancient Alma — a Jewish settlement during the Talmudic period — the soldiers came across some stone lintels containing a date tree and a dove in relief. The soldiers immediately notified the regional antiquities inspector, who checked the site and found that the cemetery covered an area of some 30 dunams.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA CHARACTERISTICS

The Israel Broadcasting Symphony Orchestra, George Slinger, conductor; Alexander Walkov, piano; Pamela Jones, soprano (Jerusalem Theatre — October 21); Martinu: Concerto for Double String Orchestra, Piano and Trombone (1933); Smetak: Lachrymose Dance (1890-1891); Dvorak: Symphony No. 7 in D minor (1885).

Music

ALTHOUGH Israel has no diplomatic ties with Czechoslovakia, its National Independence Day is traditionally observed by George Slinger and the Radio Orchestra, with a concert of Czech music close to the date — October 29. This year, three outstanding composers were chosen. All were born in the 19th century and lived into the 20th, but each wrote in a different style and expressed national characteristics differently.

The strongest impact is made by the work by Martinu (1890-1959), which was obviously written during the tragic time of Munich when his country was sold to the Nazis "for the sake of world peace." If ever a musical composition without a declared programme or intended tone-painting expressed the anxiety of a black hour of humanity, the agony of a sensitive artist watching history proceeding undeflected on its course to tragedy, the helplessness of mankind in the face of an approaching catastrophe — this is it. Martinu has given us this document in sound in harsh, accusing sonorities, in uncompromising though tradition-bound musical language. We were taken back into the 19th century by the Lachian Dances of Leoš Janacek (1854-1928). Clearly modelled after Dvorak's classical Slavonic dances, the six pieces disclose the original personality of the composer despite their early writing; they all make most pleasant listening, and their fresh and colourful orchestration keep interest up from beginning to end.

Dvorak's Seventh Symphony (sometimes still listed as "No. 2"), very Brahmsian in parts, always melodious and emotionally moving, is so full of musical interest that it makes one wonder why conductors always choose his Ninth Symphony ("From the New World"), or, sometimes, his Eighth Symphony, but hardly ever this lovely work.

George Slinger, as always, conducted with enthusiasm and love for his music, and the Israel Broadcasting Symphony Orchestra responded in the best possible manner. YOHANAN BOHEM

AN ANSWER TO DEMANDS FOR WAGE-HIKES

By DAVID KRIVINE
Jerusalem Post Economic Correspondent

THE desire for middle-class wages behind the extremist wage demands currently tabled by professionals in the public service. Mr. Moshe Sarbar, now Governor of the Bank of Israel, this week revealed a solution he had proposed to this problem of the differential, when he headed the Inter-Ministerial Efficiency Committee in the civil service.

Asked whether he remembered the proposal he replied straight away, "Of course I remember. It was adopted by the Efficiency Committee. But it was never applied."

As present negotiations with the professionals are approaching a deadlock, I asked whether his formula, which has not yet seen the light of day, might be relevant to our present infirmity. Again, his answer was affirmative.

"We recommended in the Efficiency Committee that senior officials should get a wage increase, on condition that they work for contracted periods of two years. At the end, management can dismiss them, or they can resign with full severance pay." (Incidentally, nobody needs to discover which of the two happened, Mr. Sarbar observes.)

What about old-timers? He proposed that they be given a choice to work for a higher salary under the contract system, or to go on as before, with the same job security — but at the lower wage previously prevailing. Newcomers to the service would all be employed according to the new system.

Mr. Sarbar observed that at a certain research institute with which he was associated, he had a hand in introducing the following arrangement: young research workers were expected to prove themselves, and advance in grade. If they did not secure promotion after a certain fixed time, they left the institute. When they reached Grade 4, they could stay on interminably, because that was a responsible position. If they wanted to go higher, the same system started again: either promotion after a certain fixed period, or retirement.

"If a man cannot advance, he is in the wrong job, and it is best that he should depart and try his hand at something else," Mr. Sarbar comments.

He also condemned the LIFO method (last in, first out). "I suggest that LIFO should not apply for employees below the age of 35. This will ensure that young people retain their jobs by merit and hard work, not by seniority."

Asked why he advocates retaining LIFO for the over-35s, Mr. Sarbar said: "Economics deals with human beings, not robots. The unions maintain that to fire a man who has devoted the best years of his life to his job in the plant is not fair, and there is something in that viewpoint."

Professionals now pressing for a wider differential, as in other countries, could prove the honesty of their intentions by accepting the challenge. If they want middle-class standards of pay, they cannot expect proletarian standards of job security. Perhaps Mr. Sarbar's resuscitated formula offers a way out of the existing deadlock.

U.K. — Israel Conference raises freight charges

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA — The United Kingdom-Israel Conference (imports and exports) yesterday informed the Shippers' Council that it would raise freight rates on the U.K.-Israel route by 12.5 per cent from January 1.

Council secretary Arieh Mehalai announced that the rise would amount to IL2m. a year. The Council has asked the Conference to forward exact calculations to justify the rise and will then negotiate with the Conference.

Mr. Mehalai said that this was the first time that a Conference had agreed to negotiate with the Council on an intended freight rate increase, and the Council would insist on the same procedure with all the Conferences.

The Zim general manager recently announced that Zim would raise freight rates by 12 to 15 per cent on all lines. All the Conferences are likely to raise their rates by the same amount.

Foreign shippers debate congestion surcharge demand

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA — The Shippers' Council demanded that congestion surcharges be ruled in Israel and not unilaterally by the shipping conferences abroad, was discussed by the Council and representatives of the largest conference serving Israel, the CONISCOON (Continental-Israel Conference) on Wednesday.

Twenty representatives of German, Dutch, British and Scandinavian shipping companies, all members in the Conference, attended. The head of the joint Congestion Board, Captain Yohanan Cahan, who is director of the Shipping and Harbour Division and representative of the Shippers' Council, which represents Israel's importers and exporters, also was present.

The Council men warned that they would no longer accept unilateral rulings by the Conferences abroad on whether a congestion surcharge is to be imposed, for how long and at what rate. If no agreement was reached on giving the Congestion Board the authority to rule on the issue, they intend to ask the government for legislation, they said.

The Board, on which all shipping interests are represented, suspended its activities last year, when the Conferences refused to abide by its ruling. It was recently reconstituted in the hope that the situation would change this year.

The European representatives said they would refer the matter to their head offices for reply.

Butter shortage still feared

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Two of Jerusalem's largest retail food shops — the Supersol and Hamashbir supermarkets — yesterday told The Post they had plenty of butter on their shelves despite the reported shortage of the commodity.

Yesterday morning the Milk Marketing Board instructed the country's dairies to halt butter shipments to shops for 10 days and to limit deliveries to hospitals and other public service institutions. The Board said the delay of a ship from Argentina had resulted in lowering the butter reserves to a "dangerously low level."

Last month the Deputy Director-general of Tnuva, Mr. Elyaniam Shany, said that — unless a shipment of 300 tons of butter arrived on time, at the end of October — there would be a butter shortage.

According to Mr. Shany, butter imports were necessitated by the 30 per cent decrease in the number of dairy farms in this country during the past five years. Although the remaining ones increased their output by 5 per cent, this was not enough to keep abreast of demand, which had increased by 10 per cent during the same period.

STOCKHOLDERS DON'T GET FAIR SHARE OF PROFITS

THE inexperienced investor who ventures into the stock market and finds he makes little or no profit may learn that he invested unwisely or that he did the best he could, but the market is subject to many influences which no one can predict, and the element of luck is inescapable. Here is an account of one man who invested in Shemen Industries Ltd. to his regret. The company replies to his complaints and The Jerusalem Post Economic Editor MOSES ATER provides an afterword.

Here is the tale of the investor who wrote The Post: "The bank which I went to for advice recommended Shemen shares, as the firm is a large, well-managed concern with a large, assured turnover. Its majority shareholder is Hamashbir Lata'sia — in short, a good prospect, I believed the shares could not but go up."

"When, after the publication of a disappointing annual report and hence a share price fall, I resigned, all even securities departments of banks are not infallible. However, when I had a chance to have a look at the published report, my original resignation changed first to surprise, and then, to indignation."

"On an annual turnover of about IL120m., there appears to be a total profit of about one million, not a brilliant result and sufficient for most firms to have a good look at management. After all, for about IL2m. in management costs and IL20m. for direct sales, one might expect something better."

"Of the total profit of one million, the preferential shareholders received a 'balakish' of IL120,000, or eight per cent."

"Hamashbir Lata'sia, however, fared considerably better than the other shareholders. Total paid-up capital is stated to be IL7,350,000. Since IL160,000 — gross before tax — was paid to holders of eight per cent pref. shares, there seem to be about two million of such shares. In other words, there are about IL3,500,000 other shares, probably mostly held by Hamashbir Lata'sia."

MANAGEMENT FEE

"Whereas most people would have expected management to have received a kick in the pants for their performance, Hamashbir Lata'sia thought fit to grant themselves a 'management fee' of IL930,000 (included in the above-mentioned amount of over IL2m. for management costs)."

"In other words, on their maximum holding of IL3,500,000, they made a nice profit of IL930,000, or about 27 per cent. Mind you, this is ordinary shares."

"Is there in Israel no one who cares about these things? What about the management of the Stock Exchange? Should shares of such companies not be refused for trading? How can these people be made to disgorge their probably illegal but self-imposed profit?"

The above letter was sent to Hamashbir Lata'sia, which replied as follows: "We have investigated the contents of the reader's letter forwarded to us and it appears that the analysis of the business results and return on owners' capital of Shemen Industries Ltd. is based partially on incorrect assumptions due to inadequate information."

"We would like to clarify the facts:

"Shemen is a public company owning directly and indirectly 12 factories producing food and consumer goods. The activity of this branch is controlled by the Government — Ministry of Commerce and Industry — in regards both price level and rates of profit.

"The operational and business results are, therefore, affected by the policy of the government and its control over prices.

"The major shareholder in Shemen is the Hamashbir Lata'sia. The dividend paid to Hamashbir Lata'sia on the Shemen shares proportionate to the share capital held by it, was lower than the rate of dividends paid to other shareholders."

"As to the management fee, this was paid by Hamashbir Lata'sia to the company managing Shemen, namely Koor Industries Ltd. (which is neither a shareholder in Hamashbir nor in Shemen), pursuant to a management agreement. This arrangement was reached as Hamashbir Lata'sia is merely an investment company with no means for management.

"The management fees charged by Koor from Hamashbir Lata'sia are lower than those charged by other companies managed by Koor. "After taking into account all the operational and business expenses of Shemen and its factories, one finds it is evident that no shareholder was deprived of his rights and that the dividends were distributed according to the principles laid down by the Memorandum and Articles of Association of Shemen."

"We sincerely hope that the business results will, as anticipated, prove better and allow a higher return on owners' capital for all the shareholders of Shemen."

After going over our reader's letter and the response from Hamashbir Lata'sia Mr. Ater concludes as follows:

UNCOMFORTABLE

The correspondence published here speaks for itself and leaves one somewhat uncomfortable.

The anonymous Shemen shareholder complains about the company's poor profit performance. The parent company's answer puts the blame on government policy, in particular on price control. But that excuse is rather lame for a concern "owning directly and indirectly 12 factories," engaged in different lines of production. Other companies producing food and consumer goods, and items no less subject to price control, have managed to earn good profits in the period concerned.

Incidentally, Shemen's published report mentions several other mishaps — ranging from poor equipment maintenance to tough competition — which have affected its earnings. One major reason for the company's poor performance was the high financing cost and decline in profitability of its subsidiaries, which may be due to the concern's investment policy.

The other point raised in the shareholder's letter is the management fee — several times the amount distributed to the shareholder — which Shemen paid to its parent-company. The Hamashbir Lata'sia response discloses that the parent-company paid over the amount to Koor Industries, being itself "merely an investment company with no means for management." That may — or may not — dispose with the query's formal aspects, but one cannot help wondering why the point was not revealed in Shemen's published report?

In any case the question of ultimate responsibility for Shemen's performance remains unsettled. What is the sense of controlling a company (by virtue of owning its entire equity capital) without being able to manage it? Or of managing an industrial concern for a fixed fee, twice its pre-tax profit? This play of musical chairs is more perplexing when one realizes that both Hamashbir Lata'sia and Koor Industries are — directly or indirectly — subsidiaries of Hevrat Haovdim, which may have other things in mind than dividends for foolhardy Shemen shareholders.

One may hope that in the long run the management agreement with Koor will bear fruit, and Shemen's profits — and dividends — will increase. But the practice of dividing managerial authority — or, let us say, of passing the buck — and of paying parent companies management fees pre-empting the rights of ordinary, and even of preferred, shareholders, remains questionable. Some code should be set up.

In the end, the anonymous shareholder seems to be right in requesting the Stock Exchange management to tackle the issue.

WALL STREET TRADING ACTIVE

Closing Thursday, Nov. 2, 1972

NEW YORK (AP). — Prices followed a mixed trend in yesterday's stock market after two straight sessions of steady gains based on hopes for peace in Vietnam. Trading was active, after being very active at the start.

On the New York Stock Exchange advancing issues had a slim and dwindling lead over decliners.

Robert Gordon of Isartorius & Co. said that for several weeks the market had been "in search of excuses to go up" and had found them in the Vietnam peace moves and "a holdover on federal spending." He added that in every very strong market, "liquidation of individual stocks takes place under cover of the market's strength."

The Dow index closed at 973.06, a gain of 4.52, and only a fraction below the 1972 high of 973.51. It had been off earlier.

Volume was 20.69 million shares, compared with 21.36 million shares Wednesday.

The big board's most-active issue was Levitz Furniture, up 1/4 to 194. A block of 118,500 shares sold at 174.

TEL AVIV STOCKS

Prices close irregular

TEL AVIV. — Stock prices were irregular yesterday after opening steady. Turnover was IL2.5m. worth of shares, of which IL1.7m. were traded in the variables. The General Index of Share Prices rose by 0.09 per cent to stand at 256.39.

Hapoalim investment was the most active share. Some 207,000 shares were traded at a range between 215.5 (the opening) and 222.5, closing at 221. up 11 points. The sudden interest is attributed to an alleged public issue in New York.

Other shares of the investment companies section were also heavily traded, but closed mainly on the downside: Discount net at 258.5 (61,700) and Clal at 217.5 (101,400), both down 3/4. Bank Leumi closed at 229, up one (50,900).

Naphtal and Lapidot were each a point better at 76 and 160 respectively.

The rest of the market was of no special interest, prices drifting around the previous close in slow trading.

Cost-of-living index-linked bonds were in demand and rose, while dollar-linked and other currency debentures were irregular. Turnover was IL2,160,500 worth of bonds. Natad was not traded.

New 'umbrella' insurance for home, family

A new insurance plan for home and family risks under an "umbrella" policy covering 11 claims, including insurance of household contents, accident and hospitalization insurance, has been announced by the Yuval Insurance Company.

In one part of this all-risk policy, Yuval Insurance includes the principle of "completing contents insurance" — the first of its kind in Israel — which is meant to compensate the insured with new items instead of articles which have been damaged by fire, burglary, storm, etc.

If a piece of furniture, TV set, refrigerator, or radio, has been damaged and its used value is IL1,000, Yuval will pay the difference between IL1,000 and the purchase value of a new item.

This insurance not only absorbs the amortization devaluation which insurance companies deduct, but also takes care of price rises of articles and their devaluation after having been used for a certain length of time.

Israeli crew gets IL100,000 award for saving ship

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA — The crew of the Atlantic Fisheries trawler Argad-Three has been awarded a IL100,000 prize for saving a foreign freighter, the Pacific Viking, in the South Pacific.

The freighter, which had been on her way from Holland to Indonesia, was blown towards the rocky shores of South West Africa during a storm, and the Argad managed to take her in tow and bring her into port. The prize award was made by a London admiralty court, the company announced Monday night.

A realistic exchange rate

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir, — In his letter about a realistic rate of exchange (October 1), Mr. Alfred Markus claims that, since there are taxes on imports on the one hand and subsidies for exports on the other hand, the existing foreign exchange rate of IL4.20 is not realistic.
